CANNON CONGRATULATES LANGSTON. CANNON CONGRATULATES LANGSTON.

The first man to congratulate Langston was Cannon, of Illinois, the possessor of the "dirty mouth," the man who recently shocked the House and the country by an utterance on the floor so vile and filthy that no decent newspaper could reproduce it. Cannon grasped Langston with both hands, and the negro in his exuberant joy reached over, and while embracing almost Rissed Cannon on the check. Langston retired to the rear with the satisfaction of knowing that he would draw between $12,000 and $12,000 from the treasury, not a dollar of which could be honestly his. He will get the salary for the entire term, amounting to $10,000, an allowance for his cotest of $2,000, and his mileage and stationery will amount to $500 more.

stationery will amount to $500 more. REED'S AUTOCRACY. Not during this entire session has Reed behaved more arbitrarily than to-day. He-refused to permit a division upon the de-mand of Colonel Offerrall and Mr. Cheamand of Celonel O'Ferrall and Mr. Cheadle, and actually forced the resolution through without any man on the floor knowing precisely the Funumber voting. Immediately after scating Langston a resolution by seat Miller, a South Carolina negro, implace of Elliott, rushed through, but Miller was not present to be sworn in. He is a candidate for reelection, and is opposed by a white Republican, who is making an active canvass. This split renders the chances of the reelection of Colonel Elliott almost a certainty.

DEMOCRATS AND THE TARIFF.

DEMOCRATS AND THE TARPF.

The Republicans are anxious and uneasy as to what course the Democrats may adopt with regard to the Tariff bill. The forcible seating of the two negro contestants absolves the Democrats from all promises made not to antazonize the tariff, and should they see fit to fight it they can delay its passage. Many of the Republicans are candidates for re-election in close districts, and they realize that while they are held here to prosecute partisan close districts, and they realize that while they are held here to prosecute partisan legislation they are risking defeat. The Democrats have the advantage, in that they need retain here only one-fifth of the number of Republicans, or about thirty-five. This number can demand the yeas and nays, and, in fact, can filibuster with as much effect as all the Democrats. Should the fighting be continued, it will be necessary to hold all the Republicans, as in the face of Democratic opposition no business can be transacted with less than a quorum of the majority. Some of the Democratic leaders are considering the propriety of selecting thirty-five of their complaint of any citizen. Consideration of the Democrats have the udvantage, in that they need retain here only one-fifth of the number of Republicans, or about thirty-five. This number can demand the yeas and many can demand the yeas and many can be read to the description of the apportionment report and passed the whole practically as reported.

New York, September 23.—A story emanating from Philadelphia was published in an afternoon paper here; to-day, the general purport of which was that ex-President Cleviand was in falling health; that he was lossing his summer vacation; never felt better than he does at present, and that the article referred to was false in every particular. He had never passed a more enjoyation to fight the charges made in the most valuable even to fight the canvass. Even the Democrats are not responsible for that.

Mr. Hume has been deceived by some of his over-enthusiastic friends as to his strength. While it is true that some Democrats in this county will not support General Lee, the regular nominee, yet it is not true that the Democratic vote will be anything like equally divided between Lee and Hume. The truth is, Frank Hume is the weakest man whose name has been discussed in connection with congressional honors in the Eighth district.

A Bare Radical Quorum Finally Secured encounts of the United States was then taken up, the pending question being on Mr. Gorman's amend—nent to substitute Baltimore for Richmond as the place for holding court in the Fourth elighth district.

Ohio Judge Gets a Pension for a Widow in Ould Ireland.

Judge Yoder, of Ohio, is the hero of an nusual pension episode. Mrs. Connolly, who lives in Donaghmore, Ireland, is the widow of an ex-soldier of the United States army. She applied for a pension for herself and her two children, but was twice refused on technical grounds. James Browe, a justice of the peace of Donaghmore, was traveling in the United States, and, incidentally meeting Judge Yoder on a railwa i rain, brought Mrs. Connolly's case to his attention. The Judge took an interest in the matter, and, finding on investigation that the case could not go through the Pension Office, introduced a bill in Congress which became a law, allowing Mrs. Connolly thirty pounds and tweive shiflings per annum. Judge Yoder has received by mail a copy of the Tyrone Constitution, a journal of prosperous appearance, containing an account of a public meeting held at Donaghmore, at which a resolution of thanks to him was adopted. The resolution was proposed by the parish priest. Along with the paper the Judge received photographs of the widow and her children and the aged grandmother, who will participate in the benefits of the pension, and a photograph of the monument which has been placed over the soldier's grave.—Cincinnati Enquirer. who lives in Donaghmore, Ireland, is the
